

ASAHEL ALBERT NORTH

Asahel Albert North was born July 2, 1876 at Midway, the son of Hyrum Bennett and Priscilla Jane (Blair) North. Married Mary Steadman in the Salt Lake Temple.

Albert North spent his childhood on the family farm at the end of Stringtown in Midway.

When he was a young man 21 years of age he went to Byron, Wyoming, and home

1031

1032

H01

steaded 40 acres of land. He remained there four years. His brother Arthur North stayed to work and improve the land while Albert went out to pay for these improvements. Later natural gas was discovered on the property and today royalties are received by the Arthur North heirs.

After his marriage to Mary Steadman, they settled in Stringtown across from Albert's mother's place.

Albert worked with his brother William for two years in the creamery business. After this he went into the dairy business buying part of his farm from his father and 10 acres from Royal Huffaker. He operated this farm until 1938 when the Deer Creek Reservoir was built taking most of his land. He and his wife moved to the McDonald farm one mile north of Heber in February 1938 where Albert still resides. His wife passed away April 21, 1950.

They were parents of seven children: Asahel Hyrum, Albert Leslie, Ruth, Jesse Erwin, Roland, LaVerne, Ferl.

WILLIAM H. AND CAROLINE STEADMAN NORTH

William H. North born May 14, 1870 in Mill Creek, Salt Lake County, Utah, oldest son of Hyrum B. and Priscilla Jane Blair North. He came with his parents to Midway when he was two years old, later moving to the south end of Midway called Stringtown. When the division was made between Charleston and Midway they were in the Charleston District, three miles from the town of Charleston.

When nine years of age, William received a bruise on his knee causing a bone infection which was very painful and stopped him from going to school. There were no doctors in the county at that time but the leg broke open and finally healed by itself.

When twenty-one years old William worked out for wages. The wages were poor, only about $15.00 a month, and the work was hard, so he decided if he worked as hard for himself he could be well off. He returned home, bought a small farm and started to work for himself. He built a small home on the farm and on Dec. 15, 1897 he married Caroline Steadman in the Salt Lake Temple.

In 1904 he started in the creamery business and still continued to farm. He over worked causing the bone infection to return in his leg, but he continued to go around on crutches, even going to school the winter of 1906-09. The pain became so severe that he went to the hospital in September 1909 and was operated on, but still had to go on crutches. He couldn't work so he sold the creamery in December 1910.

In November 1910 he bought a home in Charleston so it would be easier to get the children to school as there was no transportation to school. Here he farmed and operated a dairy with the help of the small children, since he was still on crutches.

In the fall of 1915 he again went in the creamery business for about two years. He again sold the creamery and bought the Charleston Co-op in September 1917 which he operated until he built a new store building in 1922, called the North Mercantile Co. which he operated up until the time of his death.

In 1927 his wife died. They were the parents of five children: Nellie North Farnsworth, Alta North Johnson Childs, Amber North LaFler Mahoney, Mill H. North and Almada North who died at seven months of age.

William H. North died Aug. 31, 1935, at his home in Charleston. 1033

WILLIAM H. AND CAROLINE
STEADMAN NORTH

William H. North born May 14, 1870 in Mill Creek, Salt Lake County, Utah, oldest son of Hyrum B. and Prescilla Jane Blair North. He came with his parents to Midway when he was two years old, later moving to the south end of Midway called Stringtown. When the division was made between Charleston and Midway they were in the Charleston District, three miles from the town of Charleston.

When nine years of age, William received a bruise on his knee causing a bone infection which was very painful and stopped him from going to school. There were no doctors in the county at that time but the leg broke open and finally healed by itself.

When twenty-one years old William worked out for wages. The wages were poor, only about $15.00 a month, and the

ASAHIEL ALBERT NORTH

Asahiel Albert North was born July 2, 1876 at Midway, the son of Hyrum Bennett and Priscilla Jane (Blair) North. Married Mary Steadman in the Salt Lake Temple.

Albert North spent his childhood on the family farm at the end of Stringtown in Midway.

When he was a young man 21 years of age he went to Byron, Wyoming, and home-

ASAHIEL ALBERT NORTH

Asahiel Albert North was born July 2, 1876 at Midway, the son of Hyrum Bennett and Priscilla Jane (Blair) North. Married Mary Steadman in the Salt Lake Temple.

Albert North spent his childhood on the family farm at the end of Stringtown in Midway.

When he was a young man 21 years of age he went to Byron, Wyoming, and home-

1031

1032

HON

steeded 40 acres of land. He remained there four years. His brother Arthur North stayed to work and improve the land while Albert went out to pay for these improvements. Later natural gas was discovered on the property and today royalties are received by the Arthur North heirs.

After his marriage to Mary Steadman, they settled in Stringtown across from Albert's mother's place.

Albert worked with his brother William for two years in the creamery business. After this he went into the dairy business buying part of his farm from his father and 10 acres from Royal Huffaker. He operated this farm until 1938 when the Deer Creek Reservoir was built taking most of his land. He and his wife moved to the McDonald farm one mile north of Heber in February 1938 where Albert still resides. His wife passed away April 21, 1950.

They were parents of seven children: Asahiel Hyrum, Albert Leslie, Ruth, Jesse Erwin, Roland, LaVerne, Ferl.

ASAHIEL ALBERT NORTH

Asahiel Albert North was born July 2, 1876 at Midway, the son of Hyrum Bennett and Priscilla Jane (Blair) North. Married Mary Steadman in the Salt Lake Temple.

Albert North spent his childhood on the family farm at the end of Stringtown in Midway.

When he was a young man 21 years of age he went to Byron, Wyoming, and home-

1031

1032

HON

steeded 40 acres of land. He remained there four years. His brother Arthur North stayed to work and improve the land while Albert went out to pay for these improvements. Later natural gas was discovered on the property and today royalties are received by the Arthur North heirs.

After his marriage to Mary Steadman, they settled in Stringtown across from Albert's mother's place.

Albert worked with his brother William for two years in the creamery business. After this he went into the dairy business buying part of his farm from his father and 10 acres from Royal Huffaker. He operated this farm until 1938 when the Deer Creek Reservoir was built taking most of his land. He and his wife moved to the McDonald farm one mile north of Heber in February 1938 where Albert still resides. His wife passed away April 21, 1950.

They were parents of seven children: Asahiel Hyrum, Albert Leslie, Ruth, Jesse Erwin, Roland, LaVerne, Ferl.

1032

ASAHEL ALBERT NORTH

Asahel Albert North was born July 2, 1876 at Midway, the son of Hyrum Bennett and Priscilla Jane (Blair) North. Married Mary Steadman in the Salt Lake Temple.

Albert North spent his childhood on the family farm at the end of Stringtown in Midway.

When he was a young man 21 years of age he went to Byron, Wyoming, and homesteaded 40 acres of land. He remained there four years. His brother Arthur North stayed to work and improve the land while Albert went out to pay for these improvements. Later natural gas was discovered on the property and today royalties are received by the Arthur North heirs.

1032

HO

After his marriage to Mary Steadman, they settled in Stringtown across from Albert's mother's place.

Albert worked with his brother William for two years in the creamery business. After this he went into the dairy business buying part of his farm from his father and 10 acres from Royal Huffaker. He operated this farm until 1938 when the Deer Creek Reservoir was built taking most of his land. He and his wife moved to the McDonald farm one mile north of Heber in February 1938 where Albert still resides. His wife passed away April 21, 1950.

They were parents of seven children: Asahel Hyrum, Albert Leslie, Ruth, Jesse Erwin, Roland, LaVerne, Ferl.

ASAHEL ALBERT NORTH

Asahel Albert North was born July 2, 1876 at Midway, the son of Hyrum Bennett and Priscilla Jane (Blair) North. Married Mary Steadman in the Salt Lake Temple.

Albert North spent his childhood on the family farm at the end of Stringtown in Midway.

When he was a young man 21 years of age he went to Byron, Wyoming, and homesteaded 40 acres of land. He remained there four years. His brother Arthur North stayed to work and improve the land while Albert went out to pay for these improvements. Later natural gas was discovered on the property and today royalties are received by the Arthur North heirs.

1032

HOV

After his marriage to Mary Steadman, they settled in Stringtown across from Albert's mother's place.

Albert worked with his brother William for two years in the creamery business. After this he went into the dairy business buying part of his farm from his father and 10 acres from Royal Huffaker. He operated this farm until 1938 when the Deer Creek Reservoir was built taking most of his land. He and his wife moved to the McDonald farm one mile north of Heber in February 1938 where Albert still resides. His wife passed away April 21, 1950.

They were parents of seven children: Asahel Hyrum, Albert Leslie, Ruth, Jesse Erwin, Roland, LaVerne, Ferl.